

Neil McMillan's Foursome Grand Challenge Winner In Irma Farmers' Bonspiel

During some of the worst weather within the memory of living or dead men, eighty-eight hard-bitten, and perhaps frost-bitten, sons, daughters and children of the soil, curled through three days of the farmers' bonspiel. Never in the history of Irma sport, did so many come so far to curl so much in such weather. We can only conclude that the farmer members of our community are sustained by the noble and indomitable spirit of pioneer forefathers. Or was it Christmas time?

Whatever the explanation may be, the number of rinks entered and the good sportsmanship evident throughout, indicates that the future of the roaring game in this community is secure. So smoothly did the event run that the Farmers' Bonspiel Committee were heard bemoaning the lack of any call on their great conciliatory powers. They were left with little to do but sip, Coffey which was served by the Ladies' Curling club.

If one rink drew any large share of the attention, it was that composed of Father Fischer, Mother Fischer, and the two little Fischers. This is no fairy tale, but rather a tale which illustrates one of the most commendable features of the Curling Club will remain unavailable for comment for some time, but wishes to announce that the Ladies' Curling Club, during the present season, intend to serve lunch at all bonspiels, and with the dimes so netted, to have the exterior of our rink changed from its present drab, colorless, depressing mottled dirt-gray to a more inspiring color. The support of all members and their wives is solicited. In fact, donations of pies, doughnuts, cream-puffs and other delicacies will be enthusiastically accepted.

Epilogue: The editor asked for this:

This should be a good time to start a Thatcher Club in view of the fact that Red Bobs wheat will be graded down to No. 3 starting 1951. Each club member gets 4 bushels of registered Thatcher wheat for $5 dollars, the balance of the cost of the seed is paid by Alberta Wheat Pool to encourage Junior Grain Club work.

Any farm boy or girl in this district is eligible if they are between 12 and 21 years of age, but only one lot of seed can be allotted to each family.

Farm Mechanization

A NOTEWORTHY FEATURE OF Canadian agriculture during the past decade has been the increasing use of machinery for farm work. In this, agriculture is in step with industry generally, where new machines are constantly being turned out, to replace human labour. Administrators of the Farm Improvement Loan Act reported that in 1949 loans for the purchase of farm machinery advanced 30 per cent. over those for the previous year, while loans for the purchase of trucks were 10 per cent. greater than in 1948. Between the years 1938 and 1948 more than $740,000,000 was spent in Canada for farm machinery, and considerably more than half of this expenditure was from the Prairie provinces.

Prairie Farms Are Extensive

that most Canadian farms would some day be highly mechanized, but certain factors have given impetus to this process, resulting in a rapid increase in the amount of machinery used in the past ten years. Labor shortages during the war and in the years since have caused many farmers to invest in machines to replace workers which were not available. The dependence of machinery to do the work at any time has also been a consideration to many farmers who have found transient labour not always adequate in busy seasons.

An Indication Of Progress

Another circumstance which contributed to the increased demand for farm machinery during the past ten years was the accumulated need which resulted from the depression, when there was little money for new equipment. Prairie farmers have purchased machinery to the wholesale value of $451,000,000 since 1938, that sum representing 60 per cent. of the total Canadian expenditure for that purpose. As long as farm incomes remain high it is expected that the amounts of machinery used will increase, and that the present ratio between crop acreage and equipment, which is now higher than it has ever been, will continue to grow. Western farmers have received commendation from many sources for the manner in which they have made use of the larger incomes which have come through good crops and high prices. The use of machines in farm work increases the efficiency of production, and the extensive mechanization of Canadian farms in the last decade is an indication of progress in this important industry.

Record Tourist Traffic At Sask. Provincial Parks

REGINA. — More people visited Saskatchewan provincial parks this year than ever before in the province's history.

This conclusion was based on the total revenue realized by the parks branch of the Saskatchewan natural resources department, which reported 1949 revenue from five of the nine provincial parks at $116,000, compared with $95,000 in 1948.

Kensico Lake, in the southeast, was one of the most popular parks, where a first-class nine-hole golf course was the principal drawing card. A road is now under construction from No. 9 highway to Cannington lake, noted for its fishing.

Cypress Hills, in the southwest, with its hills of glacial rubble and stands of lodgepole pine, remains high as a provincial resort. Due to the severe terrain, considerable levelling-off of the grounds and terracing of certain slopes is being undertaken.

Manitou in central Saskatchewan, enjoys continued popularity as a health resort, while Madge Lake's biggest attraction is fishing. Greenwater Lake, in the northeast, offers a terrain considerably different from the rest of the province.

At Katerpiller and Good Spirit provincial parks, which branch provides camp kitchen, lavatories and bath houses for the public, while the province's ninth provincial park, Nipawin, is still undeveloped.

TO EMBARK ON MAJOR FARM POWER PROGRAM

REGINA. — The Saskatchewan power corporation likely will embark next year on the first phase of a major farm electrification programme, J. W. Tomlinson, general manager, said.

Mr. Tomlinson said it is proposed to link 2,400 farms in various sections of the province with the power system. The corporation's aim is to establish a progressive plan for rural electrification and a five-year programme to effect this now is under study.

Tarifa, seaport of Spain, is the most southern town of Europe. Tunny and anchovy fisheries are carried on there.

Bear Steak

This bear didn't see the New York City Bear Festival (left), and George Melnycky (right), are shown with him. He weighed 300 pounds and George shot him last fall a mile and a half north of Sturgis, Sask. This is the second bear shot by Bert and George. They are not sure who got the first one, because both shot. This bear ended up as bear steak. Some said it was good eating, while others wouldn't commit themselves.

FUNNY And ### OTHERWISE

Ezra J. Calabash was seated in his office when the telephone rang. "Hello, is that Mr. Calabash?" came a voice from the wire. "Yes," replied Mr. Calabash. "Who is calling?"

"This is Johnson, Johnson, Johnson, Johnson and Froudy." "Good morning, good morning, good morning, good morning, good morning—howdy!"

"This bell is a bit unusual," said the Cockney guide, "but the gringos of American visitors—Ours is an ancient church. 'We only ring it when we 'a visit from the Lord' Bishop, a fire, a flood, or some such calamity."

"What kind of a young man was that fellow I saw you with last night, Doris?"

"A spendthrift, with emphasis on the 'thrift.' Why money slipped through his fingers like flypaper."

"I hope," said one wife to another, "that you never nag your husband."

"Only when he is beating the carpets," said the second one. "When he is thoroughly irritated he makes a much better job of it."

Pat, a truck driver, stopped suddenly on the highway. The car behind crashed into the truck and owner sued the Irishman.

"Why didn't you hold out your hand?" the judge asked Pat.

"Well," he said indignantly, "if he couldn't see the truck, how in hivin' name could he see my hand?"

The dramatic critic started to leave in the middle of the second act.

"Don't go now," said the manager. "I promise there's a terrific kick in the next act."

"Fine," said the critic, "retire; give it to the author."

"Won't your wife hit the ceiling when you get home tonight?"

"She probably will; she's a heck of a shot."

A husband and wife took a trip to New York City after being on a farm for 10 years. They went up into the Empire State Building for a look at the city, and as the wife gazed across acres and acres of buildings she gasped: "I'm speechless, absolutely speechless."

"Good," her husband declared. "I'll buy the darned thing."

Scotty (hoping for free advice): "Doctor, what should I do for a sprained ankle?"

Doctor (also a Scott): "Limp!"

OUR COMPLETE SHORT STORY

THE CARDBOARD LOVER ::

By ESTHER V. ROBBINS

"WHATEVER has come over you?" her mother asked in the tone Mary recognized as the one she used when her patience was being tried unreasonably.

She thinks I'm not a national girl," Mary thought. "Not since I was a little girl has she spoken to me in that tone, but she uses it all the time now; ever since . . .

"It's actually shameful!" Mrs. Edmund said, pushing the untouched toast closer to Mary's plate, "the way you've been treating Johnnie lately. Last night you scarce made an effort to be civil." Your father and I had so hoped . . . She sighed.

Mary, tall and slender, turned, glancing again at the kitchen clock, then pushed back her chair. "Time I started for the office," she said, getting up.

"But you haven't finished your breakfast. And it's early!" Mrs. Edmund's round face puckered into a troubled frown. "You never used to leave before eight. I just don't understand— you feel all right, don't you, dear?" She put a plump, restraining hand upon Mary's shoulder, then fondled a dark curl.

"I feel fine, Mom," Mary smiled, then kissed her mother. She hurried down the hall, stopped open the front door, calling out, "See you tonight!"

Soon the commuters would be gathering at the arcade to take the downtown street cars. Mary reached the corner, turned south across the boulevard and almost ran the

Maybe Fortune Had Smiled Upon Her?

A west street car came along just then. Edith? But only a faded, young woman was getting off. She carried a baby in her arms and two small, messy children tugged at her skirts. Mary had often noticed these young mothers who seemed to have given up caring for life and were given up caring for themselves, their children looked, and they wondered about their husbands.

She watched the woman struggle across the street. Just then the older child, a little girl of about five, began to cry. "But, Mummie, I don't want my picหนู took," she whimpered.

The woman's lips grew tighter. "If you start acting up, Jane, I'll just give you a straw!" Mary thought she was close to crying.

They reached Derringer's, but the woman seemed to have trouble managing the door. Mary hurried forward. "Let me help," she said.

A grateful little smile touched the young woman's lips. "Would you, please?"

Mary held the door, then followed them inside, hoping to be of help.

Edith, why the woman's husband hadn't come along to help manage the children.

Mr. Derringer came forward. "Here you are, Mrs. Plunkett!"

Yes, Mary thought, her husband would have a name like that. She glimpsed someone lounging in a comfortable chair behind Mr. Derringer. A hat was tipped jauntily over one eye so that his face was in the shade. She must be more careful. And Edith, of all people, was keeping company with Johnnie's brother, Tom. They often double-dated.

"What were you, staring at?" Edith asked. "You looked as if you were lost in another world."

"Well, I . . . I . . ." Mary said hastily as Edith, curious, edged in beside her before the window. In a sudden flash of inspiration, she added, "I was just thinking of having my picture taken."

Really? That is a coincidence. So am I. Mother's birthday is next week. How about meeting me here after work?"

"Well . . ."

"Well, it's my street," Edith worked west instead of downtown. Before Mary could think of an excuse she rushed away, shouting, "It's a date then! See you at 5:30!"

All day Mary was more abstracted. Edith's co-workers teased her who the heavy-duty man she smiled grimly to herself. Some girls fell in love with a movie star, but at least they knew his name. Chances were they'd never meet the boy they loved either, but they could go to the movies and listen to the enchantment of his voice; they could read all about him in the magazines that was all in the printed page.

Other girls fell in love with their teachers. They could sit in class and feast their eyes upon the one they loved; find excuses to stop him the hall. And a lot of girls fell in love with the boss. While she . . .

As she puzzled over the last paragraph of the letter Mr. Peckett had dictated, the words of a song came to her mind.

It's only a paper moon

Sailing over a cardboard sea . . .

Well, she was in love with a cardboard lover! But perhaps it wasn't as hopeless as she had thought. Perhaps, she told herself, Edith's trapping her into meeting her at Derringer's was a good thing after all. Maybe it was a sign. Maybe fortune had given her and something would come of it.

Later, as she waited outside Derringer's, she hugged the thought for comfort. She would casually admire the picture for its "photographic qualities," and then, Mr. Derringer would thank her enthusiastically and say, "Ah, yes! A grand young chap! Let's see, his name is . . ." She enjoyed imagining the various names that might be his: Michael? Richard? . . . Nothing plebian like John or Sam or Joe.

New Plan For Sheep Marketing

REGINA—From Jan. 1, Saskatchewan farmers will be required to raise sheep will be able to market their lamb and mutton on a rail grade basis: Hon. I. C. Nollet, agriculture minister said.

This means that producers who wish to do so can have the carcasses graded rather than being paid for live animals. Regulations requiring all lamb and mutton sold through retail stores in Regina, Saskatoon, Prince Albert and Moose Jaw to be graded will go into effect Jan. 1, Mr. Nollet said.

The regulations also cover restaurants, hotels and boarding houses in the four cities. Their purpose is to give the consumer greater confidence in buying lamb and mutton.

This snow plane was all hand made except the propeller by Gordon and Blake Cooke. It was built last winter from an old airplane frame. The snow was so deep that the boys had several calls to help the police, the mail man, also in chasing coyotes.

A total of 65,486,719 acres of Saskatchewan land now is involved. Of this, total, 36,448,410 acres are out of crown geophysical permits. There are 366,600 acres under drilling or sub-surface permits.

The crown reserve of permits let amounts to 9,033,304 acres; and there are 20,000,000 acres of freehold land, the bulk of which major oil companies and independents have taken up.

After months of trades, deals and readjustments this summer, 57 companies and independents now hold 257 crown permits; 27 groups hold 223 crown geological or physical permits; and 19 groups hold 28 drilling or sub-surface permits.

Began Aug. 1 and Oct. 1 alone, the oil and gas permit picture in Saskatchewan changed to the extent of 3,639,603 acres. New companies entering the play have taken out 2,435,223 acres. Others added 1,203,380 acres to their holdings.

During the same period roughly 345,000 acres were returned to the crown and added to the crown acreage already under application.

Sask. Plans Full-Scale Oil Development

REGINA—Saskatchewan can expect a full-scale oil development program next spring; 40 per cent. of the province's area now is under permit to oil companies.

Alberta Government To Wipe Out Coyotes

EDMONTON—Most popular sport in rural Alberta in recent months—hunting coyotes—is to receive active support soon from the Provincial Government.

Agriculture Minister David Ure said, the government plans to hire two airplanes next month for coyote hunting. They will be manned by expert hunters.

With the coyote population increasing in the prairie provinces, and hunters have taken matters in their own hands to protect domestic animals and fowl from the marauding predators. Chief targets of the hungry North American prairie bandits have been sheep, chickens and turkeys.

All over Alberta mass coyote hunts have been organized with up to 104 participants. Some numbers have been as many as 40 coyotes in a day.

In the past, coyote hunters toured infested areas using hounds to track down and kill the animals. Alberta formerly offered a bounty on coyotes but withdrew it this year when it was considered ineffective.

Says Sneeze is Nature's Germ Killer

LONDON (CP)—Never backfire a sneeze—let it rip.

That is the advice of 80-year-old Dr. Octavia Lewin, formerly medical consultant to the London County Council, now one of London's oldest women doctors.

All her life this kind, but peppy old lady has preached the virtues of nose hygiene and the science of the handkerchief.

"The sneeze is nature's way of blasting away germs, yet every day you see silly fools stifling their sneezes in pocket handkerchiefs. That is not the way to use your handkerchief."

Dr. Lewin is equally vehement about the proper use of what she calls "nature's dustbin" — the nose.

Proper Breathing

"The entire British Army has been brought up to breathe wrongly. They breathe in through the nose and out again through the mouth.

"That is all wrong. It should be through the nose both ways. Napoleon had the right idea. When his men were on the march they had to hold a leaf between their lips so that no whiff of air could get in or out."

At Battersea Barracks men still talk of the time Dr. Lewin inspected the Queen's Cadets for physical fitness.

The purple-faced sergeant-major had just shouted "Shun" to the cadets when Dr. Lewin stepped up to him and said: "Young man, your collar is too tight."

Favor Loose Collars

"A tight collar is a menace," she says. "It creates the need for more air than can be got through the nose, hence the mouth is forced open. You don't find the great people in the land wearing tight collars."

Pointing to a picture of a group of Birthday Honors recipients, Dr. Lewin said: "Look at these men who have done something. All have their mouths shut.

"But look at the gapers in glasses you see walking along the streets—99 per cent of these mouth breathers have enlarged tonsils and adenoids and poor eyesight. They get a large portion of their income from stopped-up noses."

Dr. Lewin is angry because the London County Council has discontinued the handkerchief drill she introduced in London schools some years ago.

"Large sums of money are spent by our glorious government on ears and eyes, but rhinology is the unknown and neglected part of biology. It is criminal," she declares.

Chemical Control Of Quack Grass

The weed killer TCA (trichloroacetic acid) provides an excellent means of eradicating quack grass in and around fence lines, and it will be used to some extent in Alberta this year to control small patches of this weed in a variety of places. However, G. R. Sterling, Supervisor of Soil Conservation and Weed Control, Alberta Department of Agriculture, is doubtful of its value for large scale operations at the present time. At a price of 80¢ per pound, the cost to eradicate quack grass with TCA is around $80.00 per acre. Quack grass can be controlled much more cheaply by cultural methods.

The crops too will be better following cultural eradication of quack grass than when the chemical is used.

The main advantage of TCA is that it does not sterilize the soil for more than about 90 days. This is a comparatively short period as compared with the effects of Sodium Chlorate. Unlike Sodium Chlorate, TCA is not flammable, but since it will irritate the skin if it comes in direct contact, it must be used with a certain amount of caution.

Good crowds attended the fourth annual party given by the Movie Division of the Chamber of Commerce, on Monday, with a show for the kiddies in the afternoon and one for the adults in the evening. Mr. Ken Hilliker, manager, in a short talk, told of the success of the movie division, which was due to the generous patronage of the public and the general high class pictures shown. Some new cushioned seats are being added from time to time. Net receipts from profits of operation will go towards community enterprises, and it is also the intention to make the Viking Theatre one of the best in northern Alberta. A party is held annually when handsome prizes are given to patrons in appreciation of the generous support.

The Camrose Lutheran Church was the scene of a pretty wedding on Wednesday, Dec. 28, at 3:30 p.m., when beneath an arch of pink and white streamers, roses and white bells and blue lighted Christmas trees on either side, Miss Evelyn Haukedal, only daughter of Mrs. Martin Johnson of New Norway, became the bride of Mr. Herman Hafso, son of Mr. and Mrs. Silvert Hafso of Viking. Rev. Grundahl performed the ceremony.

Under the leadership of Lloyd McIntyre, Viking Curling Club is being represented at the High River $5,000 Bonspiel already in progress this week. With Lloyd are Bob Thunell, Lumin Dobry, and "Stub" Trueman.

G. M. McFadyen was up from Wainwright on Sunday visiting his friend Geo. A. Leodes.

Mr. and Mrs. John Murphy Jr. drove over from Camrose and spent the yuletide holidays at home.
